RC Creations, LLC Announces Plans for Expansion

Smoked Fish Plant to be the Most Modern and Technologically Advanced in the World

FOR RELEASE AFTER 10:00AM (EST), Friday, October 18, 2013 - RC Creations, LLC, a subsidiary of Acme Smoked Fish Corporation, today announced it is expanding manufacturing operations with plans to construct a new facility in North Carolina. The 100,000SF state-of-the art facility will be strategically located in the Wilmington area to complement Acme's existing locations in Brooklyn, NY and Pompano Beach, FL. Acme Smoked Fish Corporation will continue to operate in New York and Florida. The facility will serve as a platform for RC Creations, LLC to accommodate future growth and sales opportunities in the smoked seafood category, both domestically and internationally.

"We are most excited to announce plans for this expansion with a commitment to continuous improvement. The additional capacity will isolate select operations to focus on an already successful core competency of making high quality smoked seafood products. The new facility is the latest advancement in our plan for sustained, long term growth," said Adam Caslow, RC Creations, LLC, Managing Partner.

The new construction will incorporate Acme's decades of research and development to utilize the most modern manufacturing technologies available while continuing to meet and exceed current Global Food Safety Initiative (GSFI) & Food Safety Modernization Act (FSMA) requirements, as well as internal quality management programs. The plant is scheduled to begin operations sometime in January 2015.

"We are well positioned to offer a wide array of competitive, high quality, smoked seafood products for both the retail and foodservice sectors. This facility will enable future generations to further enhance our reputation of being the industry leader in the smoked seafood category in the United States," added Mr. Caslow.
